B SEWELL—Stephen Girard used to say in "I have always considered advertising belong to be the great medium of success in the prelude to wealth. The McMinnville Reporter has closed its third volume

Mayor Noltner, of Oregon City, is confined to his room by illness

Almost a fire occurred at Ed Hirsch's residence in Salem, last Thursday night

The barks Metaxathon, Whistler and schooner Oregonian were built at Coos Bay

The first boat of the season reached McMinnville on the Yamhill on last Monday

The Baptists of Polk county have had a protracted and successful meeting at Dallas

Only about 200 bushels of wheat were wholly lost by the falling of the Buena Vista warehouse

Sunday fishing with dip nets is in vogue at the Oregon City falls Last Sunday was a good day

The little steamer Who Fly was to make a trip from Coos Bay to the Umpqua on some fair day this week

The Treasurer of Yamhill county has paid into the State Treasury $8 150, being the proportion of State tax due from the county, less $721

It is claimed that Albany has more men with their hands above the timber line (bald headed men) than any town of like population in the State

Stephen Moyboll bailed Albany for Wednesday night, but would not show because the authorities wanted him to pay license He went Corvallis ward

A man named O Brien, of Chehalem valley, had an examination before Esquire Moor on Monday, charged with an assault with intent to kill, and was discharged.

Santiam Lodge, No 27, I O O F, installed the following officers on Thursday, Jan 2 L C Conser, N G, W H B Steward, V G, W M Smith, R S, B Custer, Treasurer

In the Supreme Court on Thursday the cases of W W Chapman vs J H Wilbur, and of the city of Portland vs A P Hinder, were argued and submitted, and the court adjourned till Friday morning

Some trouble seems to have arisen at Salem about land titles, in a portion of the city, among those who hold under titles purchased before the vendee, Dr Wilson had ostracized the fee simple from the United States Government

We are informed that never before was there so large a proportion of silver paid into the State Treasury for State taxes, as has been received this year This, of course, indicates a great scarcity of gold everywhere, and ergo, a scarcity of money in general

The following persons are the officers for the ensuing term for the Salem I O R C S W Lemon, E Commander C Bowker, E Counsellor D McFaddon, C of H N Raymond, W S Sadie Chapman, W T Hattie Bowker, S C Larkin Kelly, J C

The Wolf Hunting Club at McMinnville, which was organized last spring, has dissolved. The members considered that it was a useless institution, as the dogs killed the sheep all the same, while they failed to bring about any great destruction of the genus lupus

Last Sunday, says the Albany Register, "for the first time since the enactment of the Sunday law, the saloons were all closed, and our citizens enjoyed a peaceful and quiet day All the saloon men, we believe, submitted willingly and cheerfully to the enforcement of the law"

The Olympia Tribune of Wednesday the 15th says "On Monday the lumber for a house was hauled upon a lot near Maple Park Yesterday before night set in the lumber was converted into a dwelling To day we expect a family will move into it So towns grow in this climate"

A sufficient sum has been donated by the citizens of Seattle so as to enable the Library Association to avail itself of the generous offer of the $300 donation from D Hoyton, Esq, for the purpose of procuring a handsome addition to their collection of books, which will soon be made

Mr Flannigan, of Empire City, is at present in New York negotiating for the purchase of two steamers of 500 and 300 tons burthen respectively The former to run between Coos Bay and San Francisco, and the latter between Coos Bay and Oakland, Cal, and occasionally to Portland

Messrs. Smith, Geest & Co, of the Harrisburg Mills, have, this season, paid a premium of five cents per bushel for white winter wheat. This is certainly some inducement for raising this kind of crop, and we believe our farmers will turn their attention more to it in the future, than they have heretofore done.

The Puget Sound Express tells the people of Steilacoom some good news in this way "We are at liberty to divulge at present some glad tidings which have come to us, but they are coy and elusive and reliable, coming, as they do, from headquarters Trade in all its branches will be mostly benefited by it, and from trade spring naturally wealth and prosperity. Steilacoom, next summer, will be the busiest town on Puget Sound

The order by the Supreme Court of Washington Territory excluding James McNaught, Esq, a counsellor of the court, and proctor in the case of Frank Griffin vs E A Nichols, from further appearance in behalf of the defendant in that case, for the alleged reason that he had no fee been attorney and counsel for the appellee, and to have possession of facts material to appellee's rights in the case before the court, has been set aside upon a re hearing

The Statesman says: The Board of School Land Commissioners into whose hands was placed the charge of expending the appropriation for a school for the blind, are engaged in making arrangements to have such school opened The appropriation is a small one—only $1,000 for two years—and the Board is therefore under the necessity of going slow in the matter Their present effort is to get some one to take the contract for a sum within the appropriation

The Statesman says "The scow Don't Bother Me, Capt Dove, which has been running between Buena Vista and Salem, is now in the dry dock of this city for repairs Capt Dove is going to put her in good trim and put in an 8 horse power engine She carries 38 tons The Fannie Patton went up the river yesterday for a cargo of grain Mr J S Smith brought down, yesterday, a raft of 38 000 feet of maple and ash logs, for the South Salem mills"

Hon J R Lewis, of Walla Walla, one of the Judges of Washington Territory, who has been in attendance on the Supreme Court at Olympia, evidently does not like the winters of the latter place Writing to the Statesman he says "This climate does not at all suit me; it rains two thirds of the time, it is cloudy muddy, dreary and dull, everything is damp and unpleasant It may be that this is a pleasant locality in summer, but I know it is very disagreeable in winter Even an earthquake scarcely dispels the dullness"

"R C B," writing to the Albany Register from Harrisburg, under date of the 16th inst., says "The past week has been one of unusual excitement and anxiety among the farmers, on account of the unsettled state of the wheat market The price (75c) remained unchanged up to Tuesday, 14th, when it went up to 80c As is usually the case with a 'set them on nettles,' and but few sold, for they knew (?) this could not last long—it was bound to go higher But yesterday proved their predictions to be wrong as the price went back to 75c, with every indication of going still lower within a very short time"

One of the oldest and best farmers in Linn county informs the Register that owing to the lateness of the season and for other reasons, he had not sown any wheat at all, but that he had as pretty a field comprising seventy acres, of wheat as a man need want—all volunteer That in his long experience as a farmer in Linn county he had never seen a field of wheat that gave better prospect for a big yield than this seventy acres That he believed Providence was interposing in behalf of the farmer, and that the volunteer crops next season would equal, if not prove superior in abundant yield, to the crops of the previous year

From Mr Thomas H Cann, Secretary of the Board of State Land Commissioners, the Statesman obtains the following items of information concerning the session of the Board for January: The Board settled questions long pending from Jackson county, in relation to the actual settlement of contestants, in favor of the following persons: John Glenn, J V Kuhn, Sam Colver, Wm H Miller and W M Moody In the case of Holmes vs Mann, Polk county, involving the right of purchase of State lands, the Board decided in favor of Holmes James D Fay vs Jesse Applegate Right to purchase 7,500 acres of swamp land in Rhett lake, Jackson county; decided in favor of Fay, on the ground that he was prior applicant Hicks vs Mindall, Nuss and others postponed till the second Tuesday in March, 1873 J S Burnett vs Penning, postponed till second Tuesday in February. The Board adjourned to meet second Tuesday in February—regular term

THE TERRITORIES

The weather on Puget Sound has been extremely rough during a week or so past.

Governor Bennett, of Idaho, has gone on a visit to the Eastern States He left Boise City last Monday

Mr Richard Lane, of Olympia, fell on the street in a fit at that place on last Tuesday, and, from the symptoms, his life was considered in danger

A British Columbia paper says a large number of settlers are coming into Semiahmoo valley on the extreme northern verge of Washington Territory

Crandall & Co, on Comas Prairie, near Lewiston, were burned out one day last week They lost everything they had in the house, including a full supply of winter provisions, clothing, etc.

Charles Lewis, arrested at Olympia for the larceny of a watch, has been convicted of petty thievery, and having more time than money he was imprisoned until he works out $50 at the rate of $1 50 a day

George W Bullene, Esq, of Port Madison, has been nominated by Messrs. Guthrie, Jacobs and Drew, for the position of Inspector of Ballots for the Puget Sound District, in place of Jas Wallace, resigned

The Boise Statesman says "We understand that a man named Wash. Turk, living on the Upper Payette, committed suicide on Thursday by shooting himself with a shotgun. We have not heard any cause assigned"

The steamer J B Libby reported as badly damaged by running on a sand bank at Swinomish flats, has been pumped out, raised and taken to Seattle, where she is undergoing repairs Her damages were not so great as at first reported

The Seattle Intelligencer says that Mr Hall, who came up to Port Ludlow on the bark For at Queen on the 4th inst, will at once commence the construction of a new schooner for Messrs Hay wood & Harmon, of San Francisco He will build it either at Port Madison or Port Ludlow.

Mr George Wist, of Seattle, who died last week, left an estate of about $15,000 in value, $9,000 of which consists of a life insurance He left a will, bequeathing $5,000 to Mrs Wist, of Port Madison, from whom he obtained a divorce some two years since, and the residue to his two brothers and a sister

A gentleman writing from Seattle under date of the 13th says "Night before last the room of Judge B F Dennison, at the United States Hotel, in this place, was entered by some party unknown and his valise containing some five or six hundred dollars in currency, and upwards of two thousand dollars worth of notes and other papers, carried away At the time of the robbery Judge D was absent from his room, and no clue so far has been found out as to the perpetrator. The thief probably intended to camp out as he took at the same time two blankets from a bed in the room"

Some indignant Britisher writes from the San Juan Islands to a Victoria paper as follows When will those who have the control of British affairs know how to manage matters without putting themselves in a position to be snubbed by Uncle Sam? Doubtless there was a time when the interests of British subjects at San Juan might have been protected, and that proper time ought to have been thought of "There is a time," the Scriptures say, "for everything," and there was a time, and a proper time, for the matter here alluded to to have been attended to, but that opportunity having been allowed to slip, the best thing now is to "grin and bear it" To ask for favor—to appeal to America ad misericordiam on behalf of suffering British subjects—is only to invite unsatisfactory reply and painful humiliation.

The (Colorado) News tells a story of a certain Lieut. Beale, who was once an officer in the Second Regiment of Dragoons, and was stationed at Fort Leavenworth He was a graduate of West Point, and the future was bright with the promise of promotion The war changed everything This officer cast his fortunes with the Confederacy, left the Union army and served in the cause of secession A few days ago Captain E L Berthoud, who has charge of engineering parties on the extensions of the Colorado Central Railway, and who knew Beale in his better days before the war, accidentally discovered this man shoveling dirt amongst a gang of workmen on the railroad grade in the mountains After the recognition, Mr Beale told Berthoud the story of his vicissitudes, and the latter, who knew well the man's superior capabilities, at once took him to Golden, and secured him a responsible position in the engineering corps of the Jalesburg road

From the Lewiston, Idaho, Signal "From what we can learn it is a number of years since we were visited by a storm of such duration and decorousness as that which was fairly inaugurated last Sunday It commenced snowing on Friday, but not until Sunday did the ground present an appearance which would indicate more than an ordinary little flurry of snow All that day and the two following the fleecy particles came down, until it had piled it up to the depth of 20 inches, but the body of the snow was light and dry, and for that reason it will not remain any great length of time On the mountains it fell to a much greater depth, and being much more moist it packed much more solid. Thursday it rained a little in the morning, with a very visible effect on the snow and left many spots bare again. We are of the opinion that 'chinook' is blowing, but it is above us, and therefore only the mountain tops, if anywhere, will get the benefit of it From what we can learn stock of all kinds are not suffering much from the effects of the storm Of horned animals, those which were in pretty fair condition in the fall bid fair to stand a long and protracted siege of rough weather, but the poor, ill conditioned cannot last long Mules and horses are all right, provided we have no severe frosts, as they could get a living on almost any of the surrounding hills."

Napoleon IV

The new Emperor of the French has been duly installed into office that is, has in connection with the Empress Regent laid his hand kissed as Napoleon IV by all the small more or less of soldiers statesmen and distinguished Frenchmen But the ceremonies of coronation did not take place at the French capital It was deemed the safer plan to have the magnificent performance come off at some place where French favorites would not be liable to take such a very human interest in the affair as they would naturally do in France In other words the boy who is dubbed Emperor is a refugee in a foreign land and the regent mother is no more regent of France than any other woman in England This farce of a French regency, located in a foreign country and which dares not show its face on French soil looks superlatively ridiculous It reminds one of the Irish Republic whose seat of government in America was the scene of so much agitation and excitement a few years ago, while England tightened her grasp upon Ireland every day Thiers and the Committee of Thirty are, together—or alternately—the regents of France, and Eugenie is simply the widow of Louis Napoleon, the deposed Monarch, and the youth who comes upon the stage to mimic emperors, is only the child of a usurper who outlived his power died in exile This fourth Napoleon is not the Emperor of France de jure or de facto

And yet it would be rash to assert that the scheme of the restoration of the Empire and the Bonapartes is destined to prove a failure There is no people under the sun with whom such a scheme would be more likely to succeed When the enthusiastic Imperialists, on the way home from the funeral of Louis, saluted the youthful aspirant for the purple, with shouts of 'Vive l Empereur, his truly Napoleonic answer was, "The Emperor is dead, vive La France, This answer indicates tact, and tact is the surest prophecy of success that any man can have—especially any ambitious Frenchman Such an answer as this is stronger with the audience for whom it was intended than any amount of sound conservative wisdom, backed up by a virtuous life And so this reported pantomime of imperial rule is well calculated to produce its effect French politics is always dramatic The reception of Louis Napoleon with wild acclaim, and making him President of the French nation in 1848, only two years after his escape from a French prison, and while he still was under sentence of confinement for life, on a conviction of treason, would have seemed less probable than the establishment of Bonaparte rule at this time If all that could happen, why not this?

A Man with a Grievance Seeks Strife

The Bulletin will not be satisfied, but insists upon fighting over again the late Senatorial contest that brought so great discord into the party We cannot see that any possible good to the party can come of opening up that bitter contest afresh We believe all persons who desire the harmony and efficiency of the party will be glad to let the asperities of this conflict be forgotten and its dissensions be healed as speedily and thoroughly as possible. Only those who feel they lost something in the contest, and those who desire to gratify a personal malice, even though the Republican cause suffer by their course, will wish to see the wounds, received by either party, re opened We trust that class of persons is small The Bulletin's accusation that the OREGONIAN sought an alliance with the Democracy, is simply—what Horace Greeley would have called by its right name The OREGONIAN said then, and says now, that those members of the Legislature who chose to settle the Senatorial question without a caucus, just as it had always been settled before in Oregon, except when Kelly, Democrat, was elected, had the right to take that course, and that by so doing they did not subject themselves to the imputation of being traitors to the Republican party Those men were as good Republicans as there are in the State of Oregon, men above suspicion and without reproach The chain of circumstances which led to their refusal to go into caucus reaches back far into the past is not a pleasant theme of discussion, and, as we before remarked, is such that its re-examination can bring no good to the party It would be a great wrong, however, to decline to be drawn into fighting that fight over again, and to remain silent when those true and faithful Republicans are unjustly assailed. Greatly desiring, therefore, to avoid such a necessity we dismiss the subject for the present, and hope not to be forced to return to it

Grant carried thirty one States with three hundred electoral votes The opposition carried six States with sixty six votes. Grant's popular majority was 759,137

The votes for President were Grant, 300 Greeley, 3, Gratz Brown, 18, Hendricks, 42 Jenkins of Georgia, 2, Davis of Kentucky, 1 The votes for Vice President were Wilson, 300, Gratz Brown, 47, Gen Banks, 1, Julian, 5, Calquit of Georgia, 5, Gov Palmer, 3 Bramlette of Kentucky, 3, Groesbeck, 1 Mochen of Louisiana, 1

The Republicans will have a little over two-thirds of the members of the House of Representatives

There will be six colored members of the House, namely Walls, of Florida, Lynch, of Mississippi, Ramey, Rainsier, Cain and Elliott, of South Carolina, and Rapier of Alabama

Governor Bradley's message to the Nevada Legislature, says the Sacramento Union, presents some interesting information The State debt has been reduced $175 903 in two years ending on January 1st 1873 At the close of 1872 the debt was $726 450, with assets on hand of $317 209 leaving a net debt of $379 246 The whole taxable property of the State is $22,879,115, which is an increase of $1,978 035 on the assessment of 1871 The gross proceeds of the mines for 1872 were $23,719 211, which shows an increase of $3 692 625 on the proceeds of 1871 The Governor recommends taxation for the special objects of an Insane Asylum and a State Prison. He also recommends legislation to prevent or punish corrupt usages in elections

The Catholic Sentinel has finally come to the conclusion that Giltner's conduct was reprehensible This conversion is a demonstration of the marvelous power of truth

Gen Sherman denies the report that he is writing a book on military science in Europe He says he has no intention of writing a book on any subject

A Pressing Want

If Mrs Duniway's lectures on a reform school for Portland shall have a tendency to arouse our citizens to the pressing importance of the subject they will accomplish much good The interest hitherto manifested has been apathetic, ending in nothing but talk if we except the fact that an act was passed at the last Legislature authorizing certain persons to incorporate themselves into a corporation and establish such an institution

Mrs Duniway took part over into the domain for such an institution when she says that the want of it is costing the city more in money than its support would cost, to say nothing of the irreparable and incalculable loss of so many of our youth that might be saved The extent of vagrancy and petty crime among the boys of the city is truly appalling and the situation becomes more alarming daily

We cannot accede to the proposition of the lecturer that the benefits of this institution ought not to be restricted to minors It may be true, as suggested that a majority of those who most need the restraints and refinements of the reform school are over sixteen years old many of them even men and women with families whose regular attendance at the Police Court proves their unfitness for self government and self protection These persons the lecturer contends, should be placed in an industrial school rather than in the county jail with common prisoners They certainly need reforming but we confess we do not see in what respect they are better than the mass of people who commit crimes and are punished for it, and therefore we think them entitled to the same treatment It would be well no doubt if practicable, to have a separate place of confinement for all classes of prisoners so that the petty larceny thief who only pilfers the trifling, matters to supply his present wants, which he is too indolent to work for need not have to associate with the grand larceny culprit who steals by reason of a felonious disposition to get property that is not his But this is impracticable Imprisonment must be penal as well as reformatory and all criminals are criminal

But the subject ought to be thoroughly discussed Our people know but little about it They will have much to learn as they go along, and they ought to neglect no opportunity to find out the facts they have to deal with, and the best modes of dealing with them If Mrs Duniway has the correct idea of the plan of operations, we hope she will be able to secure their adoption Our old fashioned conservative notions may be wrong and her new fashioned progressive ones right

The subjoined stanzas from Samuel Colver's poetical description of the first battle of the Modoc war, are to the point, whatever may be said of the poem as a literary effort We are informed he will recite the entire poem at his lecture this evening

The regulars for sometime stood
Unequalling in the fight
To be shot down in rank and file
By Indians out of sight

But all the Swamp land braves soon fled
And charged into a cabin
Constructed like the Ancient one
They used to house Queen Mab in

These Swamp-land braves first from the field
Reported killed and wounded
Three-fourths of all the Modoc brave
Besides they know one grounded

One gallant knight who in the fight
Threw down and lost his gun;
Says but for that he never would
Have been the first to run

Black Jim they killed and Captain Jack,
And all killed Scar faced Charley,
Except the one who dropped his gun,
So he escaped it barely

To count their dead, from what they said
They killed just twenty one
More bucks than Jack had in his pack
Before the fight begun

Seward and Napoleon—An Unwritten Chapter of the Rebellion

We find the following in the San Francisco Bulletin of the 11th instant

The death of the ex Emperor Napoleon recalls an incident of the great Southern Rebellion which has not hitherto been made public It is well known that the late Emperor of the French was an active and earnest sympathizer with the South that more than once he seriously meditated material intervention in its behalf, that the invasion of Mexico and the enthronement of Maximilian in the seat of the Montezumas was a part of a deliberate plot to break up the American Union But to what lengths he proceeded—how resolutely determined he was to carry his fell design into execution—has never been fully known outside of a narrow official circle The story of his purpose is short but suggestive and was told by Mr Seward to a few personal friends at a dinner party among whom was the writer of this article No one who was present will ever forget the intense earnestness and animation of the great statesman, as he related the momentous incident The exact words, so pregnant with eloquent meaning—so solemn and impressive—we cannot in every instance reproduce, but the general import is below

'It was, said Mr Seward, 'in the darkest days of the Rebellion Disaster upon disaster had befallen the Union armies Treason was active and bold fronted at Washington, in the North and in the West Rebel emissaries and their allies were plotting against us over the Canadian border Our foreign relations were most critical Rebel cruisers were being fitted out in British ports and sent to prey upon our commerce Germany was cold Only neutral the smaller European States were indifferent spectators of the conflict Russia was the only friend we had among the powers of the earth

'In this desperate emergency I received an autograph letter from the Emperor of the French It was marked private and confidential' It began with expressions of personal regard for myself, and pan at the spectacle of the great Republic in the throes of dissolution Personally,' said Napoleon 'I could wish the cause of the Union to succeed But the welfare of France and the force of popular opinion are paramount to individual sympathies Our commercial interests are seriously suffering from the prolongation of your war My subjects appeal to me to arrest the bloody conflict I must obey the voice of France at whatever cost You cannot put down the rebellion embrace the earliest opportunity to make terms with the South If you fail to do this I shall feel compelled, in the interests of my country—in the interests of civilization—to intervene with all the power at my command

'I answered Napoleon's insulting letter immediately I did not waste words in compliment I said This is a family quarrel We propose to settle it in our own way and in our own time We do not wish the assistance of outsiders we will not tolerate interference The American Union is to be preserved It shall be preserved it it takes twenty years to do it The war is hardly commenced yet the people are just beginning to warm to the work We wish to be on good terms with our neighbors—we wish especially to be on good terms with France, our ancient friend and ally But you must keep hands off If you presume to intervene, we will show you what a free people battling for national existence are capable of Heretofore we have conducted the war humanely, in accordance with the rules that govern the most Christian States Interference on your part will be the signal for a war of conquest and destruction We will free the negroes, we will put arms in their hands and send them forth to ravage and plunder We will make the South a waste and a desolation Russia and France will be seen from one end of the South to the other

'The letter was sent by the first steamer The same day I telegraphed to Archbishop Hughes and Bishop Simpson to meet me at the Astor House the morning following That evening I left for New York and explained to these eminent gentlemen the objects of the conference and the new danger that threatened the Union cause I told them that they must at once go to Europe, to labor unofficially with the Government and ruling classes in England and on the Continent to represent the wickedness, danger and folly of foreign interference In less than a week they were on their journey, reached Europe at a most opportune moment—(Mason and Slidell had just been seized—England was in a white heat of rage) and did much toward convincing Europe that the proper thing and the only thing to do was to leave us alone And the mission cost the Government less than seven thousand dollars

The New Pistols

The flattering degree of public favor with which homicide seems to be received in these days should commend to poet novelist, and humanitarian those softer, childlike, more idyllic traits of the homicidal character which, owing to certain illiberal prejudices of the past, have not hitherto enjoyed their just measure of aesthetic and sympathetic appreciation Judiciary and jury of the period having tenderly removed the shadow of the scaffold to an incalculable distance from their previously misjudged character, there may, undoubtedly, be seen in the latter such qualities of grace, susceptibility, and refinement of sentiment as were not distinctly visible before, and challenge adequate recognition at last Here for instance is a touching little story of love life of a gentleman of Chattanooga, Tenn who for some months past, has been annoyingly subjected to a lingering form of legal restraint on account of a quite common incident of emotional insanity, for which he has always been ready to apologize Abruptly conducted to a plainly furnished and imperfectly ventilated prison-cell, at a genial, vernal season of the year when his almost pastoral love of nature made him yearn for the holds and woods, he checked the apology he might otherwise have offered to the relatives of the person to whom his temporary aberration of intellect had been a premature funeral, and bore the hasty injustice of a nearly absolute law with silent fortitude Another in his place might have fallen back upon his constitutional rights and demanded an immediate beginning of that trial by jury which stood between him and the resumption of his business and social relations but the manner of his arrest had been offensive to his subtle pride, and for months he drooped sententiously within the barbarous precincts of the common jail Aroused for a brief time by the coming of the Presidential election, he did curb his depressing sense of wrong sufficiently to step outside the prison one day when the jailer had not his spectacles on and take part in an impressive mass meeting in the town, but, this spasmodic act of revelry over his return to his Bastile was a spectacle of disgust with the world at which the keeper was pathetically overpowered Not until the inhumanly delayed period of his acquittal however, was this injured character destined to languish in such cold indifference to human interests, for, as the poor little flower—the panura Piccola—sprang up between the flags of the prison-pavement to soften and cheer a certain historical captivity, so this injured Chattanooga gentleman was finally wooed from his justifiable misanthropy by a delicately emotional event in his secluded experience In a cell not far from his own was a lady of homicidal celebrity, patiently awaiting the homage of a jury to whom came recently, as a visitor, an unmarried sister from Georgia Touched by the gentle, domestic sentiment of the sisterly union, the jailor—who is a man of elegant manners—placed the jail yard at the service of his fair guests for a promenade, and while taking their airing there from day to day the ladies became acquainted with the hero of our idyl At first the exchanges of sociability were upon indifferent topics—the weather, pistols, the female lecture field, bowie knives the political situation, prejudiced coroners, and so on, but at last the gentleman and the unmarried sister became more interested in each other, and the discreet homicidal lady did not always partake in their walks It was Pocahontas over again the moody captive had found his companion flower within the repulsive walls of a jail and was magically softened thereby to the utmost sweetness of demeanor and a disposition to forgive even those who had placed him where he was When, after a too brief season of delightful walks the unmarried sister was obliged to return to her home, the hitherto taciturn gentleman of Chattanooga made the jailer a life a burden to him with endless demands for fashionable stationery, and dispatched a snow storm of letters after the departed mistress of his loving heart Then she came back again to be present at the triumph of the homicidal lady in a complimentary testimonial of the usual "Not Guilty,' and assure the homicidal gentleman that she loved him deeply, madly 'Such being the case, observed this gentleman to the jailer, in a casual conversation 'it is a mere form for me to ask the privilege of visiting my betrothed at her sister's house until this little affair of my trial is over We purpose marrying and beginning immediately after my acquittal, or the granting of a new trial and I naturally wish to become acquainted with her family and friends beforehand. Embarrassed by the request, which seemed but reasonable the jailor blushed and stammered in his effort to explain that he scarcely felt authorized to grant it by the letter of the still existing law His friend and temporary guest might be visited by the young lady and her celebrated sister, and he could send as many letters as his feelings dictated but in the as yet only partly revised statute there was a harsh legal inelegancy constructively forbidding the social indulgence desired Wildly agitated at this rebuff, considerately as it had been phrased the homicidal gentleman recoiled as from a blow He had forborne to insist upon an immediate trial, out of regard for the convenience of bench and bar but now he would have it at once, no matter who was unprepared 'Since then says the Chattanooga Herald 'he sits in his cell all day and does nothing but read the Bible from morning till night while his betrothed passes the hours sewing in the portico of her brother-in law's house just over at the corner of the street with many a dreamy glance toward the prison of her beloved and a sighing expectancy of that approaching session of the Circuit Court which shall restore him to liberty ' The trials of these two harmonizing natures may seem hard to bear now, but like a majority of the murder trials of the day, they are a mere matter of form and when, in the domestic future the happily wedded twain look back upon them they will present only the benefi cent seeming of an ordeal requisite to develop and vindicate some of the noblest traits of homicidal character —N Y World

THE MODOC WAR AGAIN

JACKSONVILLE Jan 12, 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I desire to make a few remarks in reference to the Modoc war now in progress in the Klamath Basin The refusal of the authorities at Washington to accept the recommendation of Gov Booth of California to set apart five thousand acres of land in the county of Lost River and Tule Lake as a Reservation for those Modoc Indians has demonstrated the fact that the Government officials were better informed in regard to those Indians than was anticipated by the Governor or his allies The Government must certainly be informed of the fact that most of the arable land in the vicinity of Lost river and Tule Lake has been settled upon and many of the settlers have good improvements and were improving up to the day they were so ruthlessly murdered by those 'peaceful Indians

The Governor intimated that speculation had much to do with bringing on this war I certainly agree with His Excellency in that respect Citizens of Siskiyou county have for years past encouraged these Indians to remain where they are and not go upon the reservation for no other purpose than to secure the trade of Capt Jack's band Those Indians have been trading at Yreka for a number of years and it is reported that Capt Jack has at this time $900 deposited in a safe in Yreka Hence, Archbald Dorris and others could visit Jack's camp in safety, while citizens from this side of the mountain would be shot down It is publicly asserted here that those Indians secured their arms and ammunition from traders at Yreka, or most of them Oh, no these parties do not want them to go up on their reservation Their trade is too much for them to lose Governor Booth no doubt is acting in good faith, and if he gets his information from parties so much interested, he will be able to give the officials at Washington terrible reports of the wrongs perpetrated upon poor 'Lo' It is probable he will get his information from the same parties who, but a few weeks ago, related to the correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle a horrible story how one Bob Small "an ignorant ranchman,' who is represented as being under the influence of liquor, deliberately shot an Indian babe while in the arms of its mother, and she on her bended knees begging the wretch to spare the life of her child and self. The whole story is false from beginning to end and evidently originated in the excited imagination of the correspondent, or the willful misrepresentations of parties in Siskiyou county, professing so much sympathy for poor 'Lo' There was no such man as Bob Small in the battle, no babe killed no squaw seen upon her bended knees Therefore, should Governor Booth get his information from such a source the tale of wrongs perpetrated against the Indians will be dark and bloody enough to accomplish the the object providing the Government officials believe it

The correspondent also stated that the Klamath reservation is unfit for a reservation, that it is cold and otherwise unsuitable Sprague River Valley is one of the most beautiful valleys in the Klamath basin, containing a large amount of good agricultural land, and the river abounds in the finest quality of fish The altitude is but little higher than Tule Lake, and it is an admitted fact that the snow never falls as deep as on Tule Lake I shall have occasion to refer to this matter again ECHO.

A New York dispatch of January 11, says "All the French residents of this city, except a very small clique of Bonapartists, speak of the death of the ex Emperor without qualification The two French dailies display a similar spirit. The Courrier des Etats Unis says 'As soon as we received the tidings, we visited the French residents of this city whose opinions are worth much consideration, and we conversed on the subject of his death, but on all hands the subject was met with indifference, or bitter and contemptuous smiles This spoke volumes of satisfaction or disdain! The Messager remarks, that 'his principal merit during his life was being a good companion The strangest thing of all is the existence of a Bonapartist party in France Let us hope that the widow at Chislehurst will have the good taste not to encourage their odious conspiracies in perverting her son into the path of ruin, where these miserable persons would conduct him '"

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 18, 1873.

CITY.

THE TELEGRAPH CABLE.—Last Sunday it was found by repeated trial that the connection with the North through the Western Union Telegraph office at this city, was severed. On investigating the cause more particularly, it was discovered that the trouble arose from the cable which was stretched across the river from near the foot of J street to the rear of the office in the Commercial building. A large fir tree was observed on Sunday floating down the stream with but a small portion of the top visible. As all the experiments resorted to, to effect a telegraph connection with the other side, proved unavailing, Dr. Plummer became convinced that the cable was broken. Yesterday a little propeller was employed in grappling the bed of the river to ascertain if the cable had parted, and if so, to secure the ends. After several hours' work, the cable at the west side was "taken up" at a point near where it enters the water. It was then followed to the middle of the river and found to be broken. The propeller then crossed over to the east side and endeavored to find the other half, but after several hours grappling the effort was abandoned. The cable on the eastern side was then unearthed where it entered the soil, and pulled up to where it passed into the water. When the cable was laid it was placed about a foot under ground, and to prevent it from ever being washed clear of the earth and coming up, strong stakes were driven at intervals, crossed in such a manner as to hold everything firm and secure. The cable was found to be so firmly imbedded that the propeller was powerless to draw it up. The efforts to secure the eastern half of the cable was then abandoned until the water so receded and leaved exposed that portion of it where the stakes are driven, that persons can dig away the soil and break the timber which brace it. This cable was laid in 1865, and no trouble has ever before been experienced with it; the communication remaining unbroken for nearly eight years. As dispatches cannot be sent or received from the north, west of the mountains, at the office here, the breakage occasions considerable trouble. An operator is sent across the river every day to receive and send off dispatches. This inconvenience will not long be experienced, as Dr. Plummer has sent to Victoria for a new cable. There are at present at that point about 2,000 feet of surplus cable. The next steamer from the Sound will bring over sufficient to reach across the river at this city. The old and broken cable will be recovered when the river falls, spliced, and in all probability will take the place of the old and damaged cable which crosses the river below Milwaukie.

A SHERIFF ARRESTED.—Sheriff Poindexter, of Lane County, while in this city was the voluntary victim of a practical joke which was played on him by one of the Police officers. More strictly speaking the joke was played on the officer by the Sheriff, as the officer was really the one who was "sold." It appears that officer Barlow, now connected with the Police force of the city, was formerly a deputy under Poindexter. On the arrival of the latter gentleman in the city, he naturally felt inclined to call on his old friend, and former deputy. Enquiries were made by the Sheriff, night before last, of Chief Lappeus as to where Barlow would be found. Lappeus gave him directions, whereupon Poindexter repaired to that locality in the city indicated. He incidentally met officer O'Neill, of whom he also made inquiries. O'Neill told him that Barlow was just around the block, and that he would call him by rapping on the sidewalk. Before this was done, Poindexter proposed to play off a "little joke" on the officer, to which O'Neill cheerfully assented. The Sheriff was to creep into the back yard of a house which stood hard by, and play the burglar. Everything being arranged, Barlow was summoned. Supposing that assistance was required, that officer obeyed the signal with alacrity. When he came up, O'Neill told him that he saw, but a moment before, some fellow slipping stealthily into the back yard of a house, which he indicated. It was then proposed for Barlow to go in and nab the burglar, while O'Neill would watch on the sidewalk and take the thief on the wing. Officer Barlow proceeded cautiously to inspect the premises, keeping a sharp lookout. He presently saw some person muffled up and enveloped in a heavy cloak, at a back window, apparently endeavoring to hoist the sash. Barlow made a vigorous charge to capture the thief, who perceiving the officer bearing down on him, fled precipitately. Barlow gave vigorous pursuit, and after running nearly two blocks overhauled the supposed burglar. Poindexter made some resistance but at length went along with the officers. When nearly to jail, the Sheriff threw off his cloak, and revealed himself to the astonished vision of his former Deputy. Barlow could scarcely believe his own eyes, or think the whole thing was a practical joke on himself. On O'Neill assuring him that such was the case, he fairly "acknowledge the corn," and offered to treat three times over if they wouldn't blow on him. However the joke was too good to keep, and that's how we came to know about the matter.

ANNUAL MEETING—The annual meeting of the First Unitarian Church took place last Tuesday night, and in spite of the heavy storm was well attended, and developed some interesting facts in the history of the church for the past year. Reports were received from the Pastor, Secretary and Treasurer, and the following Trustees elected to serve on the Board for the ensuing year: J. W. Cook, Ira Goodnough, and Theodore Wygant. During the preceding week a move was made to clear the church of all outstanding debts, which was successfully carried out, and some $1,100 was raised for this and other purposes; $600 of which was contributed by three individuals. The society begins the new year entirely free from debt, with $200 collectable from last year's subscription list, $250 on a fund for the relief of the poor, and $500 in the Ladies' Sewing Society fund. The number of subscribers to the Constitution is nearly 100. The number of children and members in Sunday School, from 175 to 200, with 25 teachers and officers; library 650 vols. The pastor reported in the past five years that he had expended $1,300 for charitable purposes, and $232 for Home Mission. During this period there have been in the parish 25 baptisms, 53 weddings and 41 funerals. Members admitted to the church 85, of whom 60 are now residents. The society and church are earnest and harmonious and full of life for the present and future.

OREGON CITY WOOLEN MILLS.—Plans and specifications for the new woolen mills at Oregon City have just been finished by Mr. E. M. Burton, architect. The plans were completed on Thursday last and forwarded at once to Mr. Jacobs at Oregon City. According to the plans, the new building will be 190 feet long and 55½ feet wide. It will be three stories high, with a basement. The basement, and first and second stories, will be thirteen feet in the clear. The third story will be ten feet in the clear. The present walls, which are comparatively uninjured, will be used, with such repairs and alterations, as may be necessary. Another story will be added. The roof will be covered with tin or mastic, and will be constructed horizontal. The contract will very soon be let, and work will follow afterward at once. It is estimated that the cost of constructing the building, and placing it in a condition to receive the machinery, will be in the vicinity of $20,000. One of the Jacobs brothers is now in the East selecting and making arrangements to purchase the necessary machinery. The building will be completed early next spring, by which time the machinery is expected to arrive. The mill will probably be in full operation by the first of June next.

PLANS COMMENCED.—Mr. E. M. Burton began yesterday to prepare the plans for the new brick edifice which is soon to occupy the site of C. M. Carter's former building, at the corner of Alder and Front streets. The contemplated structure will be of the same dimensions as the former one —54x100 feet. However, the new building will only be two stories high and include a basement. The stone walls of the foundation are not damaged to the slightest extent, and will, of course, be used for the second building. Remaining portions of the old walls still standing, will soon be removed, and the debris cleared away ready to admit of work for the new building. When the plans are finished the contract will be let, and operations commenced at once.

FAILED TO REACH.—Dr. A. L. Lindsley, of this city, was announced to deliver a lecture at Olympia last Wednesday evening. To fulfill his appointment, Rev. Mr. Lindsley left this city on Tuesday afternoon. He arrived at Kalama, where he remained over night. On Wednesday morning he took his departure on the cars, expecting to arrive at Olympia in time to lecture, which was announced to commence at 8 o'clock in the evening. The condition of the road was such that the train did not arrive at Tenino until about 3 o'clock P. M. It being too late to proceed on and fill his appointment, Dr. Lindsley concluded to return on the same train to Kalama, which he did without ever seeing Olympia.

MORE BUILDINGS.—We have it from good authority that the owners of the land on Front street, between Alder and Morrison, the buildings on which were destroyed by the late fire, intend soon to rebuild. The land lies between Carter's building on the north and W. S. Ladd's on the south. The principal owners are Capt. Holman, C. M. Wiberg and Wm. Gray. The intention of these gentlemen is to erect brick buildings, separated by fire proof partitions and two stories in height. We learn that the plans and specifications are in the hands of an architect and will soon be finished. Work on the foundations will be commenced as soon as the weather will allow.

COLUMBIA REBEKAH DEGREE LODGE.—The members of the Columbia Rebekah Degree Lodge No. 3., I. O. O. F., were installed on Thursday evening by Grand Master Apperson. The following is the list of officers installed: U. E. Hicks, N. G.; Mrs. J. S. Morris, V. G.; Ward S. Stevens, Secretary; Mrs. J. H. Lyon, Treasurer; J. M. Sutton, Warden; Mrs. T. G. Young, Conductress; U. E. Henry, O. G.; H. M. Jensen, L. S. N. G.; Mrs. U. E. Hicks, R. S. V. G.; Mrs. W. F. Wilcox, L. S. V. G.

BURDETT COMBINATION ORGAN.—One of the celebrated Burdett Combination organs has been purchased at Gray's music store for St. James' Cathedral in Vancouver, W. T. This fine instrument will be used, for the first time, in that church, during divine service to-morrow, when Mr. Geo. L. De Prance will preside at the instrument. He will be accompanied by a portion of the Catholic choir of this city.

INFORMATION DESIRED.—Mrs. Sarah J. Goss, who is stopping at the Russ House, has been anxiously awaiting tidings from her son, H. W. Goss, whom she supposes is somewhere on the Sound or at some other place in Washington Territory or Idaho. Any information relative to his whereabouts will be thankfully received by Mrs. Goss who can be addressed at this city, care of Russ House.

NOT IN FULL OPERATION.—The East Portland Water Works by which Holladay's Addition is to be supplied with water, are not yet in full operation. The turbine wheel, which is to draw the water from Sullivan's spring and then force it through all the ramifications is ready to run. The cause of the detention is occasioned by the water connections not having yet been completed.

ENDS IN SMOKE.—And now come the Seattle papers and say that all the furore created about the capture of the notorious Shults at that place is a hoax. Shults if in that Territory, has not yet been either recognized, identified nor captured. That ends in smoke all the noise; and the prospects of the eight hundred dollars reward, have gone were twinoth the fragrant woodbine.

DRAWN IN.—The German bark Mendelssohn, which, since her arrival here, has been anchored out in the stream, was drawn over to McCraken's wharf yesterday. She has on board 400 tons of ballast rock, which will be discharged, after which the bark will receive a cargo of cereals for Liverpool, as the vessel is under charter to Messrs. Rodgers, Meyer & Co.

GRANT INVINCIBLES.—We learn that the members of the Grant Invincibles of this city have made arrangements to turn out in a body and escort Hon. J. H. Mitchell to the steamer when he takes his departure from the State, en route for Washington. As stated before, the honorable gentleman will leave by the next steamer for San Francisco.

SOON TO PASS THROUGH.—In consequence of some work being done on the upper gate of the locks, the little steamer Calliope is still detained in the basin. She will probably pass through in a day or two, or whenever the work is completed. It is the intention of the owners, to place the Calliope on the line between this city and McMinnville.

CROSSED OVER.—The ship Whittington was drawn over to the east side wharf yesterday. This vessel has discharged ballast and received a small portion of her cargo of wheat at McCraken's wharf. The remainder of the load will be finished at the east side, when the Whittington will proceed down the river.

UNDER ADVISEMENT.—The case of State vs. McKee and Kennedy, came up for examination yesterday in the Police Court. The defendants were charged with having interfered with an officer while in the discharge of his duties. The Court took the matter under advisement until this morning.

ONE M. W. McDONNELL, who has for some time been troubling divers citizens of Walla Walla by calling them out of bed at unreasonable hours and demanding food, and then complaining because ham and eggs were not given him, has been adjudged insane and sent to the Territorial Asylum.

GRAPPLING.—Webfoot No. 2, was engaged yesterday in grappling the channel of the river below Stark street. The object was to secure the eastern end of the cable which connects with the Western Union Telegraph Company. During the late high water the cable was broken by drift.

DONATION.—The St. Joseph's T. A. B. Society have dissolved. The balance of the funds in the hands of the Treasurer has been generously donated to the Orphans in charge of the Sisters of the Holy Names in this city.

HIND QUARTERS, SILETZ BRIGADE.

January 18, 1873.

General Order No. —: WHEREAS, Gen. Miller and Gola. Bellinger and Thompson, of the Commanding General's staff, are, according to the Oregon Statesman, annihilating the Modocs in the lava beds of Southern Oregon, and watering their chargers in the streams of Lost river, Captain C. Knowall, of the Herald's staff, likewise of Brig. Gen. Brown's staff, is ordered to detail nine able-bodied men from the Tee Mud Rangers and reconnoiter the headwaters of Giles' Lake as far south as the slaughter-house, to ascertain if any stragglers from the enemy's camp are yet lingering at the old Indian camp in Counk's Addition. Also that Captain K. station three men at the upper end of Ginty's corral, on the canyon road to Hillsboro, to prevent any supplies being smuggled through to the enemy on that route. As two Indian ponies were seen coming down that road yesterday it is deemed necessary that a masterly inactivity be displayed in carrying out this order. All citizens living west of Canyon Gardens are requested to extinguish their lights before the hour of 0 o'clock in the morning to prevent accidents by the explosion of coal oil, should an engagement with the enemy take place. It is suggested that a corps of observers be placed in the belfry of the Academy to give the signal should our forces be compelled to fall back, that recruits may be pushed forward to succor them.

LETTER FROM FOREST GROVE.

FOREST GROVE, Jan. 14, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Yesterday at 4 o'clock Forest Grove became an incorporated town with its five Trustees, Recorder and Marshal.

This result encourages the hope that various needed improvements will be made and some nuisances abated.

During the past year our village has made rapid growth, and the prospect is good for at least the same rate of progress in the future.

The railroad has been of advantage as direct as if Ben Holladay had owned the town, or had chosen to make it a pet. Of course, he would not do the last unless the first were true. We enjoy the rare privilege of being largely benefited by the aforesaid individual without being owned by him or under the least obligations to him. It will be a glorious thing when all Oregon is equally independent.

The nearest railroad station is three miles distant, although the road passes near the south side of the village. We must ultimately have a station. The Company are losing $2,000 a year at least, by not stopping,—or, to state it in another way, it loses at least one sixteenth of the business of the whole road, (the business of three miles) besides a large amount that would be created by the accommodation, and the cost of taking our mail to and from the present station; nor does it benefit Cornelius that we are incommoded.

Practically, Mr. Holladay has been building two towns: one at the station (Cornelius); the other, Forest Grove. This has been unfortunate for the former place. It would have been far better for that if it had been located at Hillsboro, while the Grove has suffered no inconvenience from the former. The larger Cornelius, the better for us. All doubts about the effect of the railroad upon this place are removed, and its prospects are improved accordingly.

A movement is on foot for the erection of new University buildings. If the present interest is sustained, and hopes realized, we shall have one of the noblest buildings in the State. The institution is reported to be very prosperous.

Shaken Constitutions.

General debility, and the despondency by which it is invariably accompanied, are often regarded as the symptoms of incurable physical decay. Of persons thus afflicted it is often said that their constitutions are undermined; that they have nothing left to fall back upon; that they are hopeless cases. This, in at least eight instances out of ten, is a false conclusion. A constitution may be shaken without being undermined; and even if undermined may be propped and strengthened; and in many so-called hopeless cases there are reserves of vitality and latent vigor in the system that only require stimulating and developing to render them equal to the work of repair. The best and surest stimulant and invigorant that can be given as a remedy for decay of the vital powers, whether natural or casual, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If the faltering physique can be roused into healthy activity by any human means, this regenerating vegetable cordial will accomplish that object. Its effects upon the appetite, the digestion, the nervous system, the secretive organs is most salutary. It not only acts directly upon the solids and fluids of the body, but indirectly upon the constitution itself. Persons left by fever in such a deplorably helpless condition that it would seem as they could never recover, may be completely built up—it might almost be said, rebuilt—by this mighty, this well-nigh infallible, vegetable restorative. At this season of inclement winds, and chilling damps the Bitters should be taken as a protective medicine.

The Beauty of Liberty.

"In all things that have beauty, there is nothing to man more comely than liberty."—Milton.

When the dance of the shadows
At daybreak is done,
And the cheeks of the morning
Are red with the sun,
When he sinks in his glory
At even from his view,
And calls up the planet
To shine in the blue—
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see
More proud than the sight of a nation when free?

When the beautiful bond
Of the bow is above,
Like a circle of light
On the bosom of love,
When the moon in her mildness
Is flowing on high,
Like a banner of silver
Flung out in the sky—
There is beauty. But earth has no beauty to see
More proud than the front of a nation when free

In the depth of the darkness
Unveiled in her,
When the shadows are veiling
The breast of the blue
When the voice of the tempest
At midnight is still,
And the spirit of solitude
Sleeps on the hill—
There is beauty But where is the beauty to see
Like the broad beaming brow of a nation when free?

In the breath of the morning,
When nature awakes,
And calls up the chorus
To chant in the brakes,
In the voice of the echo
Unbound in the woods,
In the warbling of streams
And the foaming of floods—
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see
Like the thrice hallowed sight of a nation when free?

When the stirring of surges
Is mad on the main,
Like the charge of a column
Of plumes on the plain,
When the thunder is up
From the cloud-cradled sleep,
And the tempest is treading
The paths of the deep—
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see
Like the sun-brilliant brow of a nation when free?

Washington Toilets.

[From the Washington Star.]

Society papers and long lists of weddings and receptions, to the contrary notwithstanding, this is not a "brilliant" social season. "It rarely is," observes the wiseacre, "after a political campaign." But while this is true, and every four years becomes more so, for the cost of electing a President is constantly increasing like everything else; still it does not account for the over dullness in business circles which oven the holidays fail to dissipate.

High priced fabrics imported largely at the beginning of the season are "marked down" to an unusual and alarming extent, while special holiday articles, brought from every part of the world for Christmas and New Year gifts, lay for the most part on the shelves. There is an apparent flurry of excitment in some of the large toy bazaars, but even this is more seeming than real; there is no solid basis of prosperity beneath it. Parties who appear to be in the midst of a golden harvest are in reality trembling on the verge of bankruptcy. The truth is, the day is past when large fortunes can be made with rapidity in legitimate business in any of our large cities. The enormous expenses, the excessive competition, and distributive rather than productive labor forbid it, and some great commercial disaster must be expected that will force young men into other occupations, and compel merchants to rest their operations upon a more substantial basis. It is a significant fact that 99 out of every 100 merchants in the large cities of this country are foreigners, whose earnings now average from four to five dollars per day, while any quantity of "gentlemanly young American men," the product of "business" colleges and high schools, can be got to keep books or do any kind of "genteel" writing for from six to ten dollars per week.

Nice prospect this for American girls! Where are the husbands of the next generation to come from?

"TEN THOUSAND A YEAR."

For the past few years an ordinary fortune has been nowhere in the estimation of the citizens of our ambitious Republic. The possessor of $100,000 in a poor man, the owner of $500,000 can just make out to live, while the income from a million barely suffices to keep up an "establishment" to supply the waste and prodigality of servants, to pay the restaurateur and the wine merchant, and afford the means for an occasional trip to Europe, and pay the Parisian dress makers and London dry goods bills. The country is undoubtedly rich, but all the mines in Colorado could not keep it going at that rate for any length of time, and the sooner we stop spending twice as fast as money can be made the better it will be for us in the long run.

WHAT DRESS COSTS.

Much can be put down to the score of extravagance in dress on the part of women, for never were so many old dresses made to do duty at fashionable entertainments as this season. Talk of only wearing a handsome dress once! Why, I have seen one made to do frequent duty one, two and three seasons, and then remodeled for a fourth at a very slight expense; and this by a society lady, who goes out a great deal, and has the credit of dressing well.

The principal cost of dress now-a-days is in the labor of making and the enormous price of imported articles to cover the great expense of doing business. A jacket or cloak which would have cost ten dollars ten years ago, now costs twenty-five to thirty; a suit that could have been made for fifteen, can now be only made or bought for forty-five; and the substantial straw bonnet, for which four or six dollars was considered a good price, is transformed into a nondescript, which is only adapted to certain styles of dress, and is called cheap at from twelve to fifteen dollars. Ladies, therefore, are obliged to spend much more money on their clothes without being any better dressed. For this they are not responsible. They have to take what is provided for them and give what is demanded from them. As men control politics and finances, it is their own fault if they do not give us a system which makes prices low and money plentiful.

WINTER COSTUMES.

There is an appearance of plainness and solidity about the winter costumes as, soon in the streets and upon the drives in the fashionable avenues which does not seem to justify the cost of this part of a lady's wardrobe. Nothing, for instance, could be more simple or sober for calling costumes than a heavily flouncing black silk dress, walking length, a seal skin jacket and muff, and black velvet bonnet trimmed with black thread-lace and marabout feathers, matching the shading of the band of silver fox which bordered the seal skin set. Yet this costume represented alone in the four articles of dress, jacket, muff and bonnet, required an outlay of five hundred dollars.

The latest designs in cloth are perfectly plain and untrimmed. They consist of a gored skirt cut rather long behind, and over this a long plain coat of reversible cloth, same shade, open in the front, and the corners turned back to form large revers by fastening the corners together with a button under the point of the basque behind. Cuffs and collar both show the under side of the cloak, and together with the revers, afford abundant relief to the austere simplicity of the designs. Iron-grey, dark blue, and invisible green are considered most distinguished, and the edges are finished only with a black silk cord or piping. English walking jackets, plain and double breasted, have had a great success this season. They are cut strictly coat shape, high on the shoulders, narrow across the back, falling collar, and sleeves shaped to the arm with single cuffs. The cloth is of the very best quality, "broad" or "tricot," only the darkest shades being used, and the finishing uniformly silk cord, piping, and buttons—the latter black silk or oxydized silver. These jackets are much more in keeping with the restricted style of street costumes than the absurd Dolmans with their short bodies and wide hanging sleeves, which bear no relation whatever to the rest of the dress, and do not seem to be a part of it.

Sleeveless jackets, of cloth silk or velvet, are cut with points, back and front, plain and not too deep. They are frequently worn with an overskirt of the same material over a plain high-necked, coat-sleeved dress of silk or cashmere in a contrasting color. No trimming is required. A simple piping edges the jacket, and lace ruffles at the neck and wrists complete the garniture. A variation from this is proposed for early spring wear, which is very effective. It consists of a mantellet which deepens at the back, and is drawn in to the waists by an elastic string. A secondary cape furnishes additional protection for the shoulders, and is cut up in the back in the style that has become so popular. An overskirt accompanies it, which is shaped longer at the back, shorter at the sides and front by cutting. There is no looping up. The plain or plaited skirt and close cut sleeves of a serge or cashmere dress look exceedingly well under this costume in gray or brown ladies' cloth, and if it is as popular as it is pretty and serviceable it will be very well worn.

NEW YEAR TOILETTES.

There are two occasions upon which New York women—not ladies only, but the rank and file—like to show dress and pretty toilettes. These are Easter Sunday and the first of January. Easter Sunday is very apt to be cold and unpropitious, but the first of January is subject to no contingencies. Upon this day the woman who has a home is bound to be at home in all the glory she is able to muster, to much of her gentlemen friends who choose to call, and for a brief period, the reference she is at liberty to revel in the freedom she enjoyed in her girlhood, and forget Mr. Mill and her own subjection to the one-man power. Naturally her New Year toilette is a matter of greater interest to the wife than to the husband. She cannot tell him how secretly desirous she is to look well and impress Slowcoach with a proper sense of what he missed by not proposing in time. She would not like to even admit that she wishes to try the effect of her newly-acquired matronly graces upon obtuse individuals who were insensible to her maiden charms when they were in the market. Yet she has a dim idea of this kind, nevertheless, and hesitates long between the serviceable black silk with white fichu and overskirt, and the pale blue which "everybody" says is so becoming to her, but which will not stand one single touch from baby fingers.

Well, what is life, after all, but a fabric made up of infinitesimal light shades, with much black and grey woven in? Let us stick to the blue while we can.

But New Year's toilettes! We must pass the old ones, the "made over" ones, those triumphs of secret skill and ingenuity that afford twice the satisfaction to the wearer that a brand new dress fresh from the hands of the modiste does, and describe a few prepared for those fortunate ladies whose husbands or fathers have not experienced the tightness of the money market, or who have "pin" money of their own.

One of these is of very rich black silk, plain trained skirt, with a panier, but no overskirt, only an apron of guipure d'art. The small basque is ornamented with the same to give the effect of embroidery, and has a vest and ruffles of antique lace to complete the neck and wrists of the coat sleeves.

Another black dress is of Lyons velvet, with revers collar, cuffs and basque of black moire antique. The skirt was made with a small train, and otherwise perfectly plain. A soft, thick Ruche of white tulle, finished the neck and wrist.

A handsome dress of white French muslin, properly trimmed with valenciennes lace and insertion, has bretelles and sash of plented China blue crepe, intermingled with loops and ends of black velvet, the latter edged with lace, the crape with fringe to match.

Damask shiffs are not as much worn this season as last, or rather, I should say, not as fashionably. There are some toilette prepared for elderly ladies of black silk, brocaded with grey satin flowers or foliage, and grey brocaded with white, which are very distinguished and most becoming when softened by the folds of a tulle handkerchief, which are sometimes worn inside as a handkerchief and otherwise outside as a fichu.

A very good effect is produced by a costume composed as follows: Demi-trained skirt of black velvet or velveteen; polonaise of pearl grey silk bordered with fringe to match and worn under a small sleeveless basque of black velvet embroidered with a vine pattern in pearl grey silk; the polonaise is long at the back and looped up with embroidered bands of black velvet, which are employed also to ornament the Duchesse sleeves.

A handsome sash of blue and pink faille and bow to match for the hair and corsage is the popular method of freshening up a black silk toilette which has already done some service. A pretty collar and sleeves of real lace are a matter of course.

Many old ladies of the severe Knickerbocker type now refuse absolutely to admit of a particle of trimming upon their dresses. Their every day costumes, when dressed for calls or dinner, consists of plain but very rich fawn or silver grey silk, a handkerchief of white crepe lisse, laid in narrow folds and edged with broad old lace crossed over the bosom, and a cap or turban of lesse, fastened with a pearl colored pin or diamond star over the forehead. A cross of oxydized silver or rucoco pearls is suspended from black ribbon velvet upon the neck.

With plain toilettes of black velvet some ladies affect large silver (Normandy) crosses and pins for the hair, arranged upon barbes of lace.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

FRIDAY EVENING, Jan. 17, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 112¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 86¾c buying; 89¼c, selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 89@ fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average, California, 12s 5d@12s 6d; Club, 12s 10d@13s 1d.

We note a growing ease in our local finances which is attributable to the fact that the call from the interior for funds has fallen off somewhat, and that remittances from the same direction have somewhat increased. Doubtless the farmers who often settle their bills with local merchants at such time as they can sell their grain, have in many instances profited by the late rise in Wheat and have made these settlements, thus enabling retailers to pay up the accounts of last year, and afforded them means of replenishing depleted stocks.

A Heavy Tax.

The Commercial and Herald says, pertinently: "Visitors from abroad, as well as our own citizens, frequently inquire what leading interests in this State are owned and controlled by Chinamen. We have dozens of wealthy men, scores of individuals with independent fortunes, and a large number who are well to do in worldly goods, but where are the evidences of ownership and control of any of the great, leading interests of the State? Some of them possess town lots or tracts of land, and some own mines and mining stock, and some are interested in manufactures to a limited extent; but who are the proprietors of the steamship lines, who the conductors, owners and regulators of our maritime commerce who supply the means of constructing canals and irrigating ditches? With rare exceptions, they are all non residents of California, and it is becoming indetious that if money is needed to enlarge manufacturing resources, to establish new enterprises, to aid the efforts of skill and industry, to develop the great resources of the State, it must be sought abroad, and at this very moment there are numbers of Californians in Europe seeking to obtain funds, either by the sale of mines, or by bidding forth to capitalists such inducements as might lead to investments in enterprises represented by them. We are laid under an annual contribution of nearly six millions of dollars freight money paid to European ship owners, and, although the tax is becoming heavier year by year, no efforts are being made to transfer it to the pockets of our own people. Close by we have the finest natural ship-yards on the continent, but with the exception of a few large vessels built for the lumber trade, or some small ones running between this port and the Hawaiian or Society Islands, we have literally done nothing in the way of increasing our merchant fleet. The Pacific Mail and the Australian lines of ocean-going steamships are owned and managed by outsiders, and the profits of their respective services go away to enrich them.

Much the same can be said of Oregon and Oregon capitalists, and we trust that before another season shall have passed to witness a better state of affairs, especially in regard to our shipping interests. Oregon, in her proportion, suffers as much from the causes referred to as any other part of the country. The high freights which have to be paid must inevitably come out of the profits of the producer and lessen them by so much. Let the evils spoken of be remedied by some means and the millions which will be saved to Oregon and the coast, will, instead of going into the coffers of foreign ship owners, go into general circulation in our midst and prove a certain bar to the general stringency in money matters, which has almost paralyzed trade of all kinds in this country for the past half year.

California Produce Market.

The San Francisco Commercial Herald of the 10th, on this subject says: "Since the beginning of a new year, there is seemingly no let-up to the outward flow of breadstuff to the United Kingdom. For the six months preceding, being the first half of the current harvest year, our grain fleet consisted of 193 vessels with full cargoes, aggregating in round figures 390,000 tons wheat, and we hope by the first of July ensuing, to swell the aggregate to 525,000 tons for the harvest year of 1872-3. The market for both wheat and flour is steadily advancing, with considerable sales for export. Barley does not sympathize in the rise of breadstuffs. Oats are, however, firmly maintained. Corn is more than usually plentiful, causing low prices to prevail. Rye and buckwheat find limited sale. Bran and hay continue to rule high. Potatoes sell readily at good prices.

"The export demand continues strong, and the milling requirement good. At the date of our last issue, 10,000 sks shipping sold at $2 10. Since then other considerable purchases have been made, only a portion of which are reported. We, however, note the following sales since New Year's day: Of coast, 5,000 sks dark, in lots, $1 85@1 87½; 6,000 sks, $1 95; 5,000 sks, $2; 5,000 sks, $2 05; 20,000 sks prime, $2.10; 15,000 sks choice shipping, $2 12½; 15,000 sks do, $2 15—the market closing very firm at the outside figure, while dark and inferior coast is in a measure neglected at $1 70@1 80 ₩ ctl."

Home Produce Market.

In our daily round among dealers to day we find that about the same uncertainty in regard to the wheat market prevails as was indicated in our last report. Holders claim that the decline is temporary, and that when vessels to arrive are once here, rather than let them lie still, buyers will come to their terms, or, rather, be compelled to purchase at an advanced figure. Buyers, on the other hand, appear to be manifesting much indifference in regard to the future and to think that they will lose nothing by lying still in the present unsettled condition of the market. Our quotations of yesterday are good for to-day.

WHEAT—We quote at $1 70@1 75 per central, with but few transactions.

FLOUR—Firmly held at $5 60 for extra of standard brands, $4 25@5 for outside country brands, and superfine at $4. The latter is dull.

OATS—Jobbing rates are stiff at 55@60 cents per bushel. The prospect for a firm market is good and dealers are sanguine, if they have full stocks. Other products are unchanged since our last report.

At the Hastings mills the Windward is loading for Melbourne, and there is a second vessel loading.
